Our strategic and enhanced collaboration with delaPlex is not just a significant milestone but an evolution in our efforts to innovate and expand our service capabilities globally.”

Josh Owen, CEO and Co-Founder

Josh Owen, CEO and Co-founder of Cycle Labs, expressed his enthusiasm: "Our strategic and enhanced collaboration with delaPlex is not just a significant milestone but an evolution in our efforts to innovate and expand our service capabilities globally. This partnership extends our reach and expedites product development to surpass customer and partner expectations, introducing a top-tier staffing strategy that leverages deep Cycle expertise and cutting-edge technology such as AI and Machine Learning. Together, we're pushing the boundaries of what's possible, enhancing our global Cycle Services capacity, and enabling our partners to integrate Cycle seamlessly into their workflows, thus enriching their offerings without compromising traditional revenue streams."

Manish Sachdeva, delaPlex Founder and CEO, reflected on the deepening ties with Cycle Labs: "Our enhanced and deepened partnership with Cycle Labs not only strategically positions us to expand our Global Enterprise Centers of Excellence but also further strengthens our testing and automation services to deliver value-driven, superior solutions to our clients. This collaboration underscores our commitment to excellence and innovation, aiming to streamline operations and accelerate time-to-market for businesses. With our dedicated global Cycle Services team, we are focused on enhancing product quality and providing robust partner-focused services and staffing solutions."

This partnership combines Cycle Labs' industry-leading testing platform with delaPlex's quality engineering expertise and is poised to revolutionize automated testing worldwide. The partnership provides innovative testing solutions and enhanced service, contributing to predictability and risk reduction in the global enterprise market.
