

Unravel Hidden Crimes in "Azalea and I – On the Road to Spain" by RM Howe

TOMAH, WISCONSIN, USA, May 7, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Set against the glamorous backdrop of a Spanish resort, this novel follows Barbara and Azalea, two spirited heroines with a knack for solving mysteries. When Barbara's Uncle Charles, who runs a coach tour company, encounters a baffling disappearance at his newest location, La Roca, he calls on her for help. Barbara, along with her indispensable friend Azalea, embarks on a mission to unravel the puzzle.

As the plot thickens, Lea finds herself entangled in a web of intrigue, tackling serious issues such as people smuggling and corruption in local politics. However, amidst the chaos, humor lurks, providing a refreshing contrast to the gravity of the situations at hand. It is through the unlikely partnership between Lea and her friend Barbara, both amateur sleuths, that the true essence of the story emerges.

About the Author

RM Howe hails from a lineage of literary talent, inheriting a passion for storytelling from her family's rich legacy. With her mother and aunt collectively authoring 80 published books from the 1940s to the 1980s, intrigue and romance flow through her veins. A versatile personality, RM Howe has left her mark across various media platforms. Having traversed numerous countries and cultures, RM Howe draws upon her firsthand experiences abroad to infuse her novels with authenticity and vivid imagery.

Message from the Author

"Enjoy pure happiness (despite murders) escapism at its best. Never a dull moment. You may think about the serious subjects and will be enlightened but you won't be sad, and you will laugh with the heroines. A good read for a rainy day."
