Tanja Janfruechte, Pacific Air Cargo President & CEO

Pacific Air Cargo operates a Boeing 747-400 F from Los Angeles \(LAX\) to Honolulu \(HNL\) six days a week and has the flexibility to add additional services as demand dictates. Ms. Janfruechte added, "While there is no shortage of competition between the mainland and Hawaii, Pacific Air Cargo has earned an award-winning reputation for exceptional service that sets us apart, and our people are excited to welcome new customers."

Pacific Air Cargo earned a Transportation & Logistics Award for Excellence recognition of its success in recent years in navigating sky-high fuel prices, increased labor costs, and the global pandemic while still delivering the highest standards of professional and friendly service in the industry.

Paul Skellon, PAC's Director of Marketing, Communications & PR explained, "This highly competitive industry requires dedicated people, exceptional customer service, state of the art communications tools, as well as the right aircraft with the right operating costs." Adding, "PAC has long had an excellent working relationship with Aloha Air Cargo and that will not change. This has not been an easy decision for them, and we will be there to help in any way that makes sense."

Pacific Air Cargo also indicated that if shippers or forwarders have any questions or concerns, they should not hesitate to contact the Customer Services and Sales professionals in Los Angeles or Honolulu where friendly team members are ready to assist and help resolve any challenges.
