

SaltWrap Launches Clinical Advisory Board

SaltWrap, the global leader in Therapeutic Sports Nutrition™, officially launches the SaltWrap Clinical Advisory Board.

PALM BEACH, FL, USA, May 13, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SaltWrap, the worldwide leader in Therapeutic Sports Nutrition™, is proud to announce the launch of the SaltWrap Clinical Advisory Board.

This panel of esteemed medical experts includes physical therapists, exercise physiologists, and regenerative medicine physicians. They are responsible for reviewing our research, content, and products for safety and efficacy.

SaltWrap's Clinical Advisory Board members are deeply involved in the latest therapeutic research and are active healthcare providers themselves. This unique position allows them to guide the company in adopting the latest technologies and methods, ensuring its approach is always rooted in the best, most current evidence-based practices.

“By combining research with our board members' clinical experiences, we create recommendations that are not only scientifically sound, but also ahead of the curve in practical healthcare.”

Founder & CEO*

The inaugural SaltWrap Clinical Advisory Board members include Alaina Curry, DPT, Chris Dempers, ASCM-EP®, and Dr. Ro Mahajan, MD.

SaltWrap founder and CEO, Scott Hogan, says launching the Clinical Advisory Board is an important step in SaltWrap's mission to become its customers' most trusted health advisor by delivering the highest-quality and most trustworthy information possible:

“What sets our Clinical Advisory Board apart from typical scientific review boards is their focus on real-world applications. In addition to reviewing the scientific literature behind our recommendations, they also consider how it works in real-world settings. This means checking that the scientific studies we base our recommendations on are practical and relevant, and blending this with their own hands-on experience and insights.

This approach is crucial for us. Often, the lessons learned in clinical practice pave the way for future studies. By combining research with our board members' clinical experiences, we create recommendations that are not only scientifically sound, but also ahead of the curve in practical healthcare."
