Brian Flack, Senior Managing Director, Morae

Kevin Flynn, Senior Director at Morae, added, "eDiscovery AI's availability for Relativity Server is especially noteworthy for our clients who continue to utilize on-premises servers to meet very specific security and compliance requirements. Our testing achieved outstanding results for audio transcription as well as issue analysis/identification when using eDiscovery AI with Relativity's Active Learning document review workflow."

“Morae’s use of our patented AI-powered technology enables them to offer great value at tremendous speed and accuracy and potentially as an enhancement to their active learning workflows for unparalleled precision and efficiency in identifying pertinent legal documents,” said Jim Sullivan, Co-Founder of eDiscovery AI.

Morae’s e-discovery business has steadily grown both organically and strategically, including with acquisitions of Clutch Group in 2017 and Exigent Group in 2023. The Morae team stands as the longest running RelativityOne partner in the world, including over 20 years of experience working with complex data sets to derive actionable insights from client structured and unstructured data.

Clients around the world increasingly rely on Morae to help them meet their discovery obligations with the speed, precision and efficiency they require through Morae’s AI-driven workflows, industry-leading data insights and expertise, and our pricing guarantee.
