

iOS text editor "LiquidLogic" released on May 8, 2024

JAPAN, May 8, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Megasoft released LiquidLogic, a full-fledged iOS text editor for daily note-taking, app development and web editing, on the App Store on May 8, 2024 (Wednesday).

The main functions are: text editor, filer, FTP, web browser, Git version management, comparison, SSH terminal function and ChatGPT.

A full-fledged text editor for use in the hand is now available.

LiquidLogic is a text editor for iOS that can be used for a wide range of purposes, from daily note-taking to work.

Syntax highlighting for 14 programming languages including HTML, XML, CSS, JavaScript, PHP, Perl, Ruby, and C++, and search, replace, and grep functions with support for Perl regular expressions allow you to edit text files at will.

It supports iCloud, Dropbox, Google Drive, and OneDrive, and can be linked to office and home computer work. The filer, FTP, and web browser functions allow users to modify web pages on the go.

Professional features such as file comparison, SSH terminal, Git version management, and AI-compatible ChatGPT functionality are also included.
