The global metal furniture industry has witnessed significant growth in the past few years, and is expected to grow at a steady pace during the forecast period. This is attributed to the fact that there is a rise in trend in customized designs, eco-friendly material, and French modern design. However, fluctuations in the price of raw materials and increase in counterfeit products restrain market growth.

Growth in population and urbanization propels growth of the global metal furniture market. As growth in population and urbanization leads to increase in infrastructure activities. Increase in numerous residential and commercial infrastructure leads to increase in demand for furniture. Commercial institutes such as hotels, restaurants, hospitals and offices also drive the market growth.

Rise in consumer interest toward home décor, surge in the number of offices, and rapid growth of online retail platforms have boosted the growth of the global metal furniture market. However, rise in cost of raw materials hinders the market growth. On the contrary, rise in the standard of living owing to increase in disposable income and advent of customized furniture and technology are expected to create lucrative opportunities for the market players in the future.

The market is segmented into type, application, distribution channel, and region. By type, the market is divided into bed, sofa, chair, table, and others.
