

Verisense Health Elects Josh Tolhoff to its Board of Directors

Josh brings extensive medical device, investment, and growth management experience to his new role.

CAMBRIDGE, MA, USA, May 9, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Verisense® Health, Inc., a digital health technology and data company, today announced the appointment of Josh Tolhoff to its Board of Directors.

“Josh has been a valued advisor to Verisense Health for more than a year; his deep knowledge of the medical device industry and experience managing rapidly growing, entrepreneurial healthcare companies are invaluable. We are thrilled to have Josh take on a more substantive role as both a director and investor to help guide us going forward,” said Verisense CEO Geoff Gill.

“Verisense Health is addressing some of the biggest data collection and reuse challenges in the digital health and clinical trials industries. I look forward to contributing to and participating in their success,” said Josh Tolhoff.
