"I am honored by the Moffat County Board's confidence in my leadership and ability to steer the district into and through a new era of success and stability," said Dr. Neal.

Dr. Neal will succeed interim superintendent Dr. Brad Meeks, who will continue to serve in the interim position until the end of June. Dr. Meeks took the position in January following the departure of Jill Hafey.

"The District's mission is to educate and inspire students to thrive in an environment of change," said Dr. Neal. "I share in their belief that children should be educated in a way that aligns with their learning strengths and passions. All students can learn; we only have to provide the right mix of ingredients."

"I believe that every person in the room supports how students learn. From the bus driver to the custodian to the teacher, we all are here for one purpose," Dr. Neal said. "And that belief goes hand in hand with the District's view that students, staff, families, and the community all play vital roles in the success and growth of the District."

He has taught and led public and private schools for over 25 years and has held Superintendent roles in national and international school settings.
