GLOBAL, ORGANIZATION, May 22, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The DCRO Institute, the world's leading source of risk governance training and credentials for board members and C-suite executives, today announced an extension of its collaboration with the New York Stock Exchange focused on how boards can create a culture that takes risk for greater performance and will include three planned events in 2024 and 2025.

Following the resounding success of their first joint offering in January of this year at the New York Stock Exchange, the organizations have agreed to host another in-person event at the exchange in early 2025, again focused on the board's role in the positive governance of risk-taking. In addition, the organizations are jointly developing two virtual gatherings to be held in June and October of 2024 that focus on critical issues facing boards.

"This is an outstanding opportunity to continue the development of a positive mindset around the governance of risk-taking among current and future board members at the world's most respected stock exchange," said David R. Koenig, QRD®, who is the President and Chief Executive Officer of the DCRO Institute.

The DCRO Institute is working with the NYSE Board Advisory Council. Established by the exchange in 2019, the council is comprised of CEOs from NYSE-listed companies who nominate

Suzanne Brown, who leads the NYSE Board Advisory Council, has been working with the DCRO Institute to launch and expand this collaboration. "Our first event with the DCRO Institute at the NYSE this past January was an overwhelming success. We're very pleased to be working together to continue a series for our director pool on how to embrace risk governance in a positive fashion," said Brown.
