Heckman will lead a team of four new Associate Brokers: Jared Edelman, Keller Arthur, and Charlie Wyatt. Cotton Munson, who specializes in Houston industrial, office, and investment properties, has also joined the team. The team will spearhead buyer and seller representation with location intelligence and creative solutions to drive the best outcomes for clients.

“Investors seeking to optimize their real assets and capitalize on premium properties are increasingly entrusting our brokerage team with the execution of their deals,” said Heckman. “The power of the new team enables us to leverage strategic oversight from our seasoned leadership team with dedicated brokers who can reach the right audience for a sale or purchase. Our approach is distinctly personalized;

we understand the requirements, listen to our client's objectives, and deliver tailored strategies, whether marketing properties for sale or navigating complex purchases.”

Rockspring is dedicated to building a dynamic team and fortifying its role as an innovative force within the Texas real estate sector. The expanded brokerage team will be instrumental in identifying new business opportunities, cultivating relationships, and driving strategic initiatives that enhance the company’s market presence and contribute to its continued success and growth.
