America by revenue, serving as a prominent benchmark for the channel's most successful companies. This year's roster boasts a combined revenue exceeding $501.2 billion, with honorees serving as pivotal influencers driving momentum in the IT industry and the global technology supply chain.

With over 25 years of experience, Ntirety has been instrumental in helping organizations optimize business outcomes. Offering a suite of comprehensive managed services spanning security, compliance, data, and infrastructure, in addition to its channel focused go-to-market strategy, Ntirety holds a unique position within the channel community. Recently named to CRN's MSP 500 list for 2024, Ntirety is recognized for its innovative, forward-thinking approach to managed services, leveraging AI and other emerging technologies to enhance its offerings.

“Organizations face escalating IT and security challenges compounded by rising costs and a growing skills gap in the market,” remarked Emil Sayegh, President and CEO of Ntirety. “The consequences of inaction, from suboptimal performance to heightened exposure to cyber threats, are simply too great. Ntirety serves as a crucial resource, leveraging our deep expertise in managed and security services to alleviate this burden. We provide organizations with proactive support and protection, offering the peace of mind that comes with knowing a dedicated, expert team is always on standby.”

“Ranking on CRN’s 2024 Solution Provider 500 recognizes the service innovations and market responsiveness of the list’s leading technology integrators, managed service providers, and IT consulting firms,” said Jennifer Follett, VP, U.S. Content, and Executive Editor, CRN, The Channel Company. “These companies have shown an unflagging commitment to business agility, continued growth, and future success through a period of rapid IT channel change, including the expansion of Everything as a Service and GenAI disruption. Our congratulations go to each company named to this year’s Solution Provider 500!”
