Conquering Fear

PALMDALE, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, July 15, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Award Winning Author, Paul Scott, writes a book for the ages. A perspective in concurring one's fears and obstacles and an appreciation in second chances.

I was a make-believe Christian with the gift of gab.”

*All I need is a tiny chance and
, I'll make it work.*

Paul O. Scott, aka Orlando P, suffers a life-threatening experience that shakes him to the core. Through the challenges of recovery, he takes you back through history and the obstacles black American families faced at a time of upheavals in civil rights and the Vietnam War.

His memoir begins with a massive heart attack that leaves him in a vegetative state with no possibility of recovery, according to his doctors. Paul lives his life overcoming multitudinous challenges while living by the adage, “All I need is a tiny chance and I'll make it work.” The story speaks to witnessing the Civil Rights movement and many of its leaders' murders as well as the Vietnam War in technicolor

“The narrator never minces words; his inflammatory remarks are simultaneously funny and biting. ‘I see you have an edge, ‘says a school administrator, an offhand remark that captures the author’s personality and so much of the book’s tone.”
