“Supporting young Arab Americans through our Rising Leaders initiatives is crucial to our mission,” said Warren David, co-founder of the Arab America Foundation and president of Arab America. “The future of the Arab American narrative depends on harnessing the potential and influence of our younger generation.”

The competition is open to all Arab Americans between the ages of 16 and 20 who live in the United States. Applicants should complete an online application about their background and achievements. The finalists will be determined by a panel of judges reviewing applications anonymously.

The Arab America Foundation and its board members are grateful for the leadership of the initiative's coordinators, Nabeleh Ghareeb and Elias T. Khalil, and the prestigious panel of judges.

Through the Rising Leaders Initiative, the Arab America Foundation recognizes accomplished young Arab American professionals. who are 40 Under 40, and 30 Under 30. The initiative spotlights professionals in all fields and business sectors, including education, law, public service/politics, non-profit, business leaders, entrepreneurs, engineers, medical professionals, artists, entertainers, writers, and media representatives.
