Global trade politics and competitiveness thought leader Dr. Jean Narcisse Djaha and Fast Africa Times Press have released a new book that equips African governments, businesses, and citizens with the tools to understand the high-level geopolitics behind the implementation of the African Continental Free Trade Agreement. The book is on sale now via Amazon, Barnes & Noble, Amazon Book Publishing House, and other major international retailers.

In Geopolitics of AfCFTA, he provides a groundbreaking explanation of why and how the African Continental Free Trade Area is a highly geopolitical project for African nations and corporations, announcing a new economic order. The Geopolitics of AfCFTA is an opportunity for everyday people, governments, and businesses to understand the high-level geopolitical aspect of the African Continental Free Trade Area, free trade agreements, and international trade in general. The African Continental Free Trade Area is too big to fail like many other development projects in the African Union.

"What I have done in Geopolitics of AfCFTA is to lay out the foundation that will inspire many young leaders and scholars to write about the implementation of the African Continental Free Trade Area. Hopefully, governments and businesses have been blessed and empowered to fully understand the geopolitical implications surrounding AfCFTA", says Dr. Djaha about his book.

Prof. Serge Pierre Besanger, WTO and IMF expert, calls Geopolitics of AfCFTA "a transformational power of African trade."

Dr. Toby Malichi, Hon.D.Bus., DHL, LHD Founding Executive Chairman and Global Head of Development, Investment & Diplomacy, Malichi Group Worldwide, LLC "Dr. Jean Narcisse DJAHA, Ph.D. brilliance and insights on Africa are on full display in his new book: Geopolitics of Africa. His cutting-edge explanation of why the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) is announcing a new economic order in Africa is groundbreaking. A must-read!"
