transformations, empowering them to build meaningful boundaries, shatter limiting beliefs, and embrace their true potential. Certified as a Lisa Nichols' Transformational Trainer, Lorena's expertise extends to creating impactful online courses such as "Not My Daughter Too," featured on Tony Robbins' and Dean Graziosi's platform, aimed at supporting women in ending generational sexual trauma.

A passionate advocate for storytelling, Lorena collaborated with 29 authors to curate an anthology of real-life stories titled Live Love Prosper: A Positive Mindset Can Change Anything, with all royalties benefiting local charities. Additionally, her affirmations book Yes Girl, Yes You Can serves as a beacon of encouragement for women seeking to elevate their self-talk and envision a brighter future.

Lorena's debut memoir Fly Girl! A Journey from Darkness to Daybreak, under the pen name L. Anne Belcher, offers a raw and empowering account of her personal triumph over sexual and intimate partner trauma.

Prior to her coaching journey, Lorena served as an Educational Specialist-Case Manager/Middle School Math Teacher, integrating mental health strategies and social-emotional learning practices. Her dedication to trauma recovery led her to serve as an Associate Marriage and Family Therapist Intern at Peace Over Violence, where she provided trauma therapy to survivors and volunteered as a speaker with Voices Over Violence.

With a rich academic background comprising a BS in Economics and Master's degrees in Education and Psychology, Lorena resides in Southern California, where she continues to inspire and uplift others through her transformative work.
