

SleepScore Labs To Present 10 New Studies at SLEEP 2024, Amplifying Company's Commitment to Advancing Sleep Science

CARLSBAD, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, June 5, 2024

/Einpresswire.com/ -- SleepScore Labs, a global leader in sleep science, is thrilled to announce 10 sleep improvement abstracts published and presented at SLEEP 2024 in Houston, Texas, a joint meeting of the American Academy of Sleep Medicine and the Sleep Research Society. This latest contribution underscores SleepScore Labs' unwavering commitment to advancing consumer sleep science and improving the quality of sleep for millions worldwide.

The ten studies being presented cover a wide range of product validations assessing the efficacy of consumer sleep products such as mattresses, supplements, and smart sleep masks. Additionally, among our abstracts, we're excited to highlight the findings from a randomized control study which demonstrated the effectiveness of the SleepScore App in improving sleep among poor sleepers.

Colin Lawlor, CEO of SleepScore Labs, expressed his excitement: "We are proud to share the latest milestone on our journey leveraging data and science to improve sleep. We are grateful to our partners for their commitment to developing superior solutions to help millions of people sleep better."

Dr. Elie Gottlieb, SleepScore's Lead Applied Sleep Scientist, added "The breadth and impact of SleepScore's product validation studies as well as the exciting results from our own digital program's randomized control trial highlight our commitment to improving population sleep health at scale. We're proud of our applied sleep science and research that provide our strategic partners with bespoke and evidenced-based sleep, circadian, and behavioral insights to inform new product innovations, services, and key decisions."

With a relentless focus on research-driven solutions, SleepScore is committed to improving sleep outcomes for individuals worldwide. This mission is propelled by our partnerships with forward-thinking companies that prioritize their customers' sleep health.
