Alison Comstock Moss, CEO of Paul Comstock Partners, said, "We are delighted to be recognized by Worth Magazine as one of the top advisors of 2024. This honor reflects our firm's commitment to integrity, excellence, and our deep-seated dedication to our clients' financial success. I am grateful for the dedicated team of professionals at Paul Comstock Partners who make this possible."

The selection process for the Worth's Leading Advisors list is rigorous, focusing on firms with an AUM of over $500 million, a client base predominantly comprising high-net-worth individuals, and a strong focus on comprehensive financial planning independent of broker-dealer affiliations. This ensures that the advice provided by listed firms is unbiased and purely client-centric.

Steve Browne, CFA, Chief Investment Officer at Paul Comstock Partners, remarked, "Recognition by Worth as a Leading Advisor is a testament to our strategic approach to wealth management, which consistently aligns with the sophisticated needs of our clients. This accolade energizes our commitment to innovation and personalized service in the complex landscape of wealth management."

Worth Magazine's editorial integrity and commitment to independence ensure that their selections truly reflect merit and excellence in wealth management, helping readers make informed decisions about who manages their wealth.
