

Deck Doc Inc Recommends Staining and Sealing Over Painting Decks

Expert Advice for Homeowners: Why Staining and Sealing Outperform Painting in Deck Maintenance

CHICAGO, IL, US, June 6, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Deck Doc Inc, a premier deck restoration company serving Chicago and its suburbs, emphasizes the importance of avoiding the painting of decks. The company, renowned for its expertise in deck maintenance and restoration, highlights that staining or sealing decks is a superior alternative for ensuring long-lasting beauty and durability.

Deck Doc Inc emphasizes that while painting might seem like a quick fix for revitalizing the appearance of a deck, it can lead to long-term issues. Paint tends to peel, crack, and trap moisture, which can accelerate wood deterioration and lead to costly repairs.

In contrast, staining or sealing allows the wood to breathe, offering protection against the elements while enhancing the natural beauty of the wood grain.

"Painting a deck might seem like an appealing option due to the wide variety of colors available, but it often results in a maintenance nightmare," states a representative from Deck Doc Inc., Shawn Waits. "Stains and sealers penetrate the wood, providing a durable finish that can withstand the harsh Chicago weather. This not only prolongs the life of the deck but also reduces the need for frequent upkeep."
