

Chicago Skyliners Crowned Winners of eATLAS' #CHistory Scavenger Hunt

ScavSquad Wins $2,500 for Best Score and Best Costume

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, UNITED STATES, June 14, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- eATLAS, the self-guided "Adventures To Go" app, held its third annual Chicago Scavenger Hunt over the weekend.

By completing the 12-stop ScavHunt in only 84 minutes, the Chicago Skyliners scored 835 points, handily beating out the second-place The Bald and the Beautiful by 200 points. Each of the four members of the winning ScavSquad takes home $500 for a total of $2,000. The Chicago Skyliners beat out 11 other teams and 31 individuals to win first prize. Among the participants were local influencers Dario Durham and Sara Faddah of the popular 77 Flavors history and culture podcast.

...we had an incredible amount of fun completing this hunt and hope to do it next year as well.”

Anna Roderman, Team Rode To History

The winners will be presented at a winners' celebration party with a 13" x 13" 3D trophy that depicts nearly two square miles of downtown Chicago's landscape—including its architecture, roadways, and waterways—in astonishingly accurate and up-to-date detail. The Chicago Skyliners, who created customized t-shirts for the ScavHunt, also won $500 for Best Costume.

Three other prizes were awarded. The Deep Dish

Detectives, who finished in third with 560 points, won $300 for Best Team Name. The duo of Rode to History picked up $250 for Best Team Spirit, stating “...we had an incredible amount of fun completing this hunt and hope to do it next year as well.” Chan Clan, champions of the previous two ScavHunts, take home $600 for Best Influencer for their multiple social media posts.

The theme for this year's ScavHunt was CHistory (pronounced "SHY-story"). Each stop required hunters to draw upon their knowledge of all things Chicago, including history, inventions, architecture, sports, food, and music. Answering correctly at five stops awarded players discounts at local businesses.

"The third annual Chicago ScavHunt was a great success," says eATLAS President Jon Matuzak. "As in the past, ScavSquads spread out across the city doing their best to win first place and the other prizes. We can see from the photos submitted that they had a great time scavhunting, which was our goal from the start. Bringing a sense of adventure into the world is what we're all about, so my thanks go out to the ScavHunters and the eATLAS team behind the scenes who made this year's event the best ever!"
