"Passing Through: Exploring the Envelope, Part One" offers an inspiring journey through Captain Manny Sousa's life, from his upbringing in an Army family during the Great Depression, World War II, the Korean War, and the Cold War, to his distinguished career as a naval aviator. Beginning in 1932 and spanning to 1972, this memoir captures the essence of an era marked by global conflict and personal triumphs.

Manny's naval career is highlighted by his role in flying the first carrier-based aircraft capable of delivering nuclear weapons, his deployment in the Vietnam War, and completing over 300 combat missions. Despite the demands of military service, Manny faced personal challenges, including the dissolution of his marriage and separation from his children.

Central to Manny's narrative is his spiritual journey, deeply influenced by the guidance of his departed aunt Jean. Her heavenly companionship, starting in 1969, provided Manny with comfort and direction, reinforcing his belief in the presence of the Holy Spirit in his life.

Through this memoir, Manny shares his miraculous experiences to inspire others to recognize the Holy Spirit within themselves, embrace God's grace, and contribute to the ministry of building up the body of Christ.
