Educator. Delivered through a user-friendly interface, AristotleK12 encompasses student-centric content filtering, asset utilization and reporting, student behavior analytics, and classroom management. This is the second win for Sergeant Laboratories and AristotleK12 in the EdTech Breakthrough Awards.

“We are ecstatic to receive the 2025 EdTech Breakthrough Award for Classroom Management Solution of the Year,” said Eric Anderholm, Chief Executive Officer, Sergeant Laboratories. “The educators who work side by side with us are a pivotal component of this recognition. We continue to be immensely grateful for their knowledge and support. Without them, we would not be where we are today.”

The mission of the EdTech Breakthrough Awards is to honor excellence and recognize the innovation, hard work and success in a range of educational technology categories, including Student Engagement, School Administration, Adaptive Learning, STEM Education, Remote Learning, Career Preparation and many more. This year’s program attracted thousands of nominations from over 15 different countries throughout the world.

“AristotleK12 gives educators the tools they need to manage technology in the classroom, however they choose. The sheer number of devices, students, and pieces of software makes technology management and content filtering an enormous challenge for educators. Most filtering technologies are complex, irrelevant for modern technology, and hard to manage,” said Steve Johansson, managing director, EdTech Breakthrough. “AristotleK12 takes the headache out of managing student technology. Congratulations to Sergeant Laboratories on winning ‘Classroom Management Solution of the Year!’”
