Advantages of FRP pipe in the construction industry and increase in building and construction activities drive the growth of the global FRP pipe market. However, disadvantages of glass reinforced polyester (GRP) in the construction industry restrain the market to some extent. On the other hand, effective solutions for waste management present new opportunities in the upcoming years.

Key Findings Of The Study

On the basis of type, the glass-reinforced epoxy segment emerged as the global leader with around 50.6% of the global market share in 2020, and is anticipated to be the largest markets during the forecast period.

Depending on manufacturing process, the filament winding segment registered the highest market share of around 71.4%, and is projected to maintain the same during the forecast period.

As per application, the chemical & industrial segment registered the highest market share of around 38.9%, and is projected to maintain the same during the forecast period.

Region wise, Asia-Pacific registered the highest market share of around 36.5%, and is projected to maintain the same during the forecast period.
