

Author Susan Q. Stranahan Joins Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation's Free Virtual Book Club

PPFF is excited to announce that author will be joining the monthly virtual book club in June to discuss her book 'Susquehanna River of Dreams.'

CAMP HILL, PA, USA, June 14, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation (PPFF) is excited to announce that author Susan Q. Stranahan will be joining the monthly virtual book club in June to discuss her book 'Susquehanna River of Dreams.' This year marks the 31st anniversary since the book's first publication.

Susan worked as a journalist for most of her career writing primarily about the environment for The Philadelphia Inquirer. It was this role that led her to write "Susquehanna River of Dreams." The book celebrates the Susquehanna River and its environmental impact and history spanning the diverse landscapes across three states.

Every time I read the book I gain a deeper understanding of this river that shapes a large portion of the Pennsylvania landscape and feeds into the Chesapeake Bay.”

“We are excited to have Susan join us to discuss her work,” said Marci Mowery, President of the PPFF. “Every time I read the book I gain a deeper understanding of this river that shapes a large portion of the Pennsylvania landscape and feeds into the Chesapeake Bay.”

PPFF started a virtual book club in the summer of 2023. With the interest, and occasional authors popping in to talk about their books, a new reading list was compiled for 2024. The virtual book club is free and open to everyone.
