significant follower count. They typically have established credibility within a certain niche and use that authority to connect with people via social media. However, what's considered large is relative. Mention reports that 26.4% of Instagram accounts have less than 1,000 followers, while almost half have between 1,000 and 10,000. Although 10,000 may sound like a lot, it is overshadowed by the top social media influencer's 622 million Instagram followers.

*Monthly Active Users (MAUs) For Each Social Media Platform?

YouTube: 2.5 billion 'active' users.

Instagram: 2 billion 'active' users.

TikTok: 1.2 billion 'active' users.

X: 541 million 'active' users.

*Who is most profitable on PYVIT?

1- Millennial Consumers

2- Gen-Z Consumers

Social media influencers are prominent figures. They dominate the online world and social apps we use daily to become household names. Social media platforms have elevated individuals around the world to reach an audience of millions, with YouTube, Instagram, TikTok, and X

(formerly Twitter) all boasting users in the tens of millions – and in some cases, even hundreds of millions.

But every platform is different, with its own style of content and recognizable top influencers. This can make it difficult to tell who the most influential people on social media are, rather than the most popular on one platform. By combining the total number of followers and subscribers across YouTube, Instagram, TikTok, and X (Twitter) for each individual, we created a leaderboard of the top 30 social media influencers worldwide.

*Types Of Social Media Influencers (By Follower Count) ...

a- Nano Influencer (1,000 to 10,000) ... With a modest following, nano influencers typically have more trusting relationships with followers and are great for hyper-targeted campaigns.

b- Micro Influencer (10,000 to 100,000) ...

Popular within a specific niche, micro influencers remain relatable and maintain high engagement rates with their target audience while getting more attention.

c- Macro Influencer (100,000 to 1,000,000 followers) ...

Macro influencers possess broad appeal which can originally stem from a niche. Their large audience is established over a long time at the expense of lower engagement rates.

d- Celebrity influencer (1,000,000+ followers) ...

These are well-known names in an industry with huge global audiences, making them great options for brand awareness campaigns but will likely cost a lot to work with.

*Who are the TOP 30 Social Media Influencers Worldwide as of June 2024?
