way, AAPLOG Action exists to restore trust in the medical profession. The advocacy group positions physicians where they should be - at the heart of the biggest political debates regarding healthcare that daily affect our maternal and fetal patients.

Through strategic engagement with policymakers, stakeholders, and the public, the lobbying group aims to foster meaningful dialogue and drive impactful reforms that prioritize the well-being of women and their children nationwide.

"Our mission is clear: to advocate tirelessly for the holistic health needs of women and their children, ensuring that their voices are not only heard but acted upon in policy decisions," said Dr. Christina Francis, MD, C.E.O. of AAPLOG Action. "By leveraging our collective expertise and networks, we aim to shape legislation and initiatives that address the unique healthcare challenges faced by women across diverse communities such as maternal healthcare deserts, cutting-edge care when a mother's life is at risk, and many other issues facing women today."

"We are unafraid to expose the politicized leadership of medical associations, both at the local and national levels, to ensure our patients are empowered with information and provided exceptional healthcare," said Dr. Susan Bane, MD, PhD and AAPLOG Action board chair.

This initiative represents a pivotal milestone in the ongoing fight for life-affirming healthcare that respects the dignity of all persons.

"We have hit the ground running to connect with policymakers, advise on legislation and lay the groundwork to launch a series of advocacy campaigns that will equip doctors and patients to together focus on quality care for women, not political agendas," said Rebecca Weaver, AAPLOG Action Executive Director. "Our members are in the business of saving and enhancing lives, and refuse to turn to methods that leave their patients vulnerable and alone."

Individuals and organizations passionate about advancing cutting edge healthcare for women and their children are encouraged to join the movement and contribute to this vital cause.
