I am very much swimming upstream and loving every minute of it. You hear things like look, people want easy music. I'm ignoring all that. I think people are ready to be challenged a little.”

Marc Soucy

Marc Soucy has been creating original music since the 1980s, and worked full-time as a producer from 1997 through 2011. Only now is he releasing his own original material, after "too long of a wait!"

"Things have changed so much over the many years I've been doing this, I think I bring a fresh approach to music that is often missing from what I hear out there. My music is a listening choice that might parallel jazz, classical, new age, or bluegrass. It's really none of the above though. It's a little of everything at once. Each single will be distinctive and very different from the others. I keep things interesting that way, and true to my musical heart.”

Marc's music is streamable and downloadable on virtually all platforms worldwide. It can also be purchased at his website store here.
