PASADENA, CALIFORNIA, USA, June 18, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gold Safe

Exchange, a top Gold IRA company, shares recent market analyses that project a bullish outlook for gold prices through 2025. According to Reuters and Citi experts, gold could reach up to $3,000 per ounce, driven by strong demand, central bank purchases, and favorable macroeconomic factors.

Gold Market Overview

Gold has already seen impressive gains in 2024, reaching a record high of $2,449.89 per ounce in May and currently trading around $2,300 per ounce. This surge is attributed to robust physical demand, significant purchases by central banks—particularly China—and prevailing geopolitical and economic uncertainties.

Reuters reports that gold prices are expected to continue rising in the latter half of 2024 and into 2025. While the $3,000 mark may be challenging, prices are anticipated to remain well above $2,000 per ounce, potentially reaching $2,600-$2,700 by the end of the year.

Citi's Optimistic Forecast

Citi analysts predict that gold prices could surge to $3,000 per ounce over the next 12 months. Their analysis points to several factors supporting this bullish outlook:

1. Economic Resilience: Gold has demonstrated strength despite a strong US dollar, high interest rates, and robust equity markets.
2. Potential Economic Shifts: A downturn in US economic growth and election-related uncertainties could increase demand for gold as a safe-haven asset.
3. Federal Reserve Policies: An anticipated easing cycle from the Federal Reserve could lower yields, making gold more attractive to seasoned professionals.
