The Business Research Company

The ecotoxicological studies market is expected to continue its strong growth, projected to reach $2.44 billion by 2028, growing at a CAGR of 6.4%. The forecast period's growth can be attributed to growing environmental impact concerns, a focus on nanotoxicology, the rise of citizen science initiatives, a focus on ecosystem-level impacts, and increasing demand for testing services. Major trends expected during this period include advances in ecological modeling, advancements in analytical techniques, mass spectrometry, biomarker assays, and the development of environmental toxicology.

Increasing Water Pollution Drives Growth in Ecotoxicological Studies

Increasing water pollution is expected to drive the growth of the ecotoxicological studies market. Water pollution involves the contamination of water bodies, leading to adverse effects on human health, aquatic ecosystems, and the environment. Factors contributing to water pollution include industrial discharge, agricultural runoff containing pesticides and fertilizers, improper waste
