Increasing Aircraft Production and Delivery Fuels Market Growth

The production and delivery of new aircraft are crucial drivers for the aircraft paint market. As airlines globally seek to modernize fleets, expand routes, and meet increasing passenger travel demands, the need for aircraft paint to protect against corrosion and environmental damage and enhance aesthetics grows. For instance, according to Boeing Company, the global aviation industry is projected to require 42,595 new commercial jets valued at $8 trillion by 2042. Additionally, Airbus and Boeing expected to deliver over 1,000 aircraft in 2022, with plans to increase production in 2023. These trends underscore the robust demand for aircraft paint in the coming years.
