“Peak days often come as a source of strain for many clients,” said Kolin Jones, Founder & CEO of Amalfi Jets. “We recognize the acute need for clients to fly during the year’s busiest travel periods so we want to allow greater access during these times for our growing client base and remain competitive in the market.”

As we aim to grow our client base and continue to offer its stand-out features against competitors. ”

Kolin Jones, Founder & CEO

Amalfi currently boasts 75 peak days on its jet card program so this move signifies a major leap for the company as it is removing all of them from its program for new clients. During peak periods around the 4th of July, Thanksgiving, and the Holiday Season, cardholders who take advantage of this offer will have peak fees waived on all flights.

“The industry is constantly ebbing and flowing with demand,” said Brian Francis, President of Sales. “These periods of intense demand often spell both headache and opportunity for brokers and operators, hence the existence of peak days. With the removal of this barrier, we hope to encourage clients to join our program in taking advantage of an incredible product during the most popular times to fly. ”

This deal comes after Amalfi’s overhaul of its Jet Card product as it aims to grow its client base and continue to offer its stand-out features against competitors.
