

Tim Hodgkinson and Atsuko Kamura present their 'Haiku in the Wide World' project: 37 haiku poems in one hour of music

Tim Hodgkinson and Atsuko Kamura will tour Japan to present their "Haiku in the Wide World" project: 37 haiku in a sensory world of musical transformation.

LONDON, UK, August 12, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tim Hodgkinson, founder member of Henry Cow, the British avant-rock band whose experimentation pushed rock music to its limits, performs in Japan with his new contemporary music piece "Haiku in The Wide World". Haiku is a form of Japanese literature that enjoys overwhelming popularity overseas due to its poise and piercing originality. From classical haiku that capture a moment in a landscape to contemporary existential haiku, his music creates a sensory world of a different dimension through musical transformation.

Co-starring is Atsuko Kamura of the Polka Dot Fire Brigade, founder of Japanese feminist punk, whose voice here dismantles and reconstructs all genres of singing from opera and folk music to improvisation, to realise Hodgkinson's hugely varied settings of haiku.

For these tour dates, Tim and Kamura invited renowned Japanese experimental musicians to join them and bring the music to new heights of invention.
