"I am a disruptor detective on a mission to uncover unique journeys of struggles, failures, and obstacles, as well as the secrets to managing them," says Adrienne. "Who is elevating the Disruptors? “

Our vision is to locate every rockstar female leader and their front-row sisters so we can amplify their voices while creating a lasting, positive impact on a global scale."

The bar was high for Adrienne Fekete, a former PR pro in the music and film industry, working alongside legends like Mick Jagger, Bono, and Samuel L. Jackson. She managed affairs for The Rolling Stones, U2, and WWE, to name a few. As the first female owner of a private investigation agency in North America, her fearless spirit and resilience set the stage for empowering women worldwide.

Gathering intel, investigating truths, and uncovering deceit about people's lives has the media bragging about Adrienne being the top 1% expert investigative storyteller. She has spent the last two decades collecting factual evidence, analyzing details, uncovering deceitful acts, and drafting case studies on the most unbelievable, destructive human behaviour while preparing to change the world with this information.

She knew there was magic in sharing stories of hard truths because a human being stood on the other side of the wreckage that, despite their circumstances, would almost always rise. These humans, who once felt broken, would one day show unbelievable courage, unbreakable strength, and forgiveness. Witnessing people come into their superhuman power is my gift from the universe. Giving it back to you is hers.
