Rising Number of Surgeries Drives Market Growth

The rising number of surgeries across the globe is a significant factor contributing to the growth of the remote surgery market. Remote surgeries, which involve advanced technology and telecommunications, allow surgeons to perform procedures on patients located at different physical locations, offering greater precision, enhanced visualization, and shorter hospital stays. For instance, in 2021, approximately 262,893 bariatric surgeries were conducted, marking an increase from the 198,651 surgeries performed in 2020.
