Rising Incidence of Dengue Cases Drives Market Growth
The rising incidence of dengue cases is anticipated to drive the expansion of the platelet shaker market in the future. Dengue, a viral infectious disease caused by the dengue virus, is primarily transmitted to humans through the bite of infected Aedes mosquitoes. Platelet shakers are essential for maintaining the quality and function of platelets during storage, which is crucial for dengue patients who require platelet transfusions to prevent or control bleeding. According to the World Health Organization, in 2022, 3,123,752 arboviral disease cases were reported in the Region of the Americas, with 2,809,818 (90%) being dengue cases, representing a two-fold increase in cases compared to 2021. Therefore, the rising incidence of dengue cases is contributing to the expansion of the platelet shaker market.
