About Daan Vreeswijk

Daan's earliest experiences with high-end audio began at the tender age of three when he fell asleep on the floor of a HiFi shop in his hometown while his father kept talking with the store owner. Growing up, his father took him to numerous HiFi shows throughout the Netherlands, instilling in him a profound appreciation and love for music. This early exposure helped him understand how a good HiFi system can evoke deep emotions and enhance the music experience. During his studies, Daan began his professional career in audio as a part-time sales representative for a well-known HiFi store in Amsterdam. Since 2011, he has successfully run his own HiFi store with his associate.
