The growth of the Australia adventure tourism market can be attributed to presence of attractive landscape and availability of a large variety of activities within different cities of the country. Furthermore, strategic marketing initiatives taken by players in the industry coupled with increase in government initiatives to promote tourism drives the country's adventure tourism industry. However, risk involved in adventure travelling and unpredictable weather conditions hamper the growth of the adventure tourism industry in Australia. These factors can thereby hamper the growth of the market. Conversely, increase in social media networking and rise in popularity of travel blogging/video logging on social media platforms such as Instagram, and Twitter, are further expected to pique the interest of travelers around the world. This is expected to increase the popularity of Australia as a tourist attraction, making way for the Australia adventure tourism market growth.

The Australia adventure tourism market is segmented on the basis of type, activity, type of travelers, age group, and sales channel. By type, the market has been classified into hard, soft, and others. Based on the activity, the market has been divided into land-based activity, water-based activity, and air-based activity. Based on the type of travelers, the market has been classified into solo, friends/group, couple, and family. By age group, it is categorized into below 30 years, 30-41 years, 42-49 years, and 50 years & above. The sales channel segment includes travel agent and direct.

By type, the soft segment was the highest contributor to the Australia adventure tourism market in 2019 and is expected to remain dominant through the forecast period. The growth of this segment can be attributed to activities in this category having moderate to low risk level, and thus, being highly popular among adventure grazers, adventurers, and adventure enthusiasts. The hard segment is also projected to grow at a notable growth rate throughout the forecast owing to gradual increase in the number of people/travelers who are willing to partake in high risk activities.
