"The reason we are so focused on shipyard workers and skilled trades workers such as welders, plumbers, electricians and or machinists-mechanics is because they would have had so much exposure to asbestos on the job-especially before the early 1980s. As an example-before welding anything a welder would have been required to put on gloves, an apron or coat and a helmet and before the early 1980s all these things were made with or insulated with asbestos. Maine is one of the nation's leading states for people who develop mesothelioma.

"If your husband or dad is a skilled trades-shipyard worker who worked at Portsmouth or any other shipyard in Maine and he has mesothelioma please call attorney Joe Belluck of Belluck & Fox at 866-714-6466. He will get your family the best compensation results. Please don't settle for less." <https://www.belluckfox.Com>
