NDLB Hope on the Harbor 2024 will raise funds to save dogs from slaughter trucks, slaughterhouses, and illegal dog meat dealers in East Asia and evacuate the survivors to the foundation's USA facility in Canton, New York where they can be adopted. "We are truly excited to be hosting our third annual fundraiser in the Hamptons. Raising awareness and funds is so important in our efforts to bring about the enactment and enforcement of global animal laws to stop the reckless slaughter of these voiceless innocent souls," explains Jeffrey Beri, founder, and president. "Every day, 365 days a year, dogs are brutally and barbarically slaughtered in East Asia for their meat and fur. Many of these countries have no animal welfare laws and it is the 21st century. Animal welfare laws are in order now and it is time for change, no country has the right to recklessly slaughter animals and no country should operate without any animal welfare laws," adds Beri.

One of the most recognized events that promote the barbaric slaughter of dogs is the Yulin Dog Meat Festival, held every year from June 21-30. "It is with great pleasure to announce the end of the Yulin Dog Meat Festival. Our tireless efforts alongside brave activists, volunteers, and other rescues have rendered huge success with the end of the Yulin festival. This only comes from the tireless work that we conduct 365 days a year, uncovering, exposing the atrocities, putting global pressure on these countries to act on change, forcing them to change," explains Beri.

Since its inception, No Dogs Left Behind has worked hands-on with local activists in East Asia fighting the fight on the front lines, through emergency response, pulling dogs directly from slaughterhouses, dog meat trucks, wet markets, and traffickers, without exchange of money. "For every dog bought from a butcher, ten more dogs will be slaughtered," explained Beri. No Dogs Left Behind does not exchange money for dogs. Rather NDLB aims to shut down and intercept dogs being traded and sold by illegal dealers and traffickers. These illegal dog traffickers lack the required documentation for the animal trade. This criminal dog cartel often acts as any cartel would with violence and lawlessness. The brave activists and No Dogs Left

No Dogs Left Behind's mission extends beyond the borders of East Asia. "We go where no one is willing nor able to go, the most dangerous places in the world, areas hard-hit by natural disasters and war-infested combat zones like Ukraine and Afghanistan." Beri traveled to Kabul, Afghanistan, where, in January 2022, he strategized and implemented the transport of 300 dogs and cats from Afghanistan to Canada. Beri personally accompanied and cared for all 300 animals on the transport from Afghanistan to Turkey to Iceland and finally, its destination, Canada.

In March 2023, NDLB established its first USA facility in Canton, New York. "This location gives us the space needed to evacuate survivors from East Asia on a more consistent basis which will, in turn, open space at our East Asia sanctuary to save more lives," shares Beri. The evacuation of survivors began this spring in April, 2024, with over 50 dog meat trade (and cat) survivors arriving in the USA. Many are now in homes with their forever-loving families.

Others are with our amazing fosters. "We have many survivors available for adoption now at our facility in Canton, NY, more are due to arrive within the next few weeks. We can't continue to save lives if we cannot get these amazing, precious survivors into homes. Please adopt. Don't shop. Adopt a dog meat trade survivor," adds Beri.
