Christina Tobin: Founder of The Free & Equal Elections Foundation.

Thomas Massie: U.S. Representative for Kentucky's 4th congressional district.

These candidates represent a broad spectrum of political views and offer voters an opportunity to hear alternatives to the traditional two-party system. The Free & Equal

Elections Foundation is dedicated to providing a platform for all voices to be heard, ensuring a more inclusive and representative political discourse.

In addition to the debate, FreedomFest will feature notable speakers, including independent presidential candidates, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and possibly Dr. Cornel West, who have expressed interest in addressing the audience at FreedomFest. Despite the opportunity to engage in a meaningful exchange of ideas, neither Kennedy nor West have confirmed their participation in the debate. "Let's unite and rise together as one to promote solidarity and elevate our civil discourse," said Christina Tobin, founder of The Free & Equal Elections Foundation.

The Free & Equal Elections Foundation calls on all candidates to step up and engage in this crucial conversation. With public frustration growing over the lack of choices in the electoral process, this debate represents a significant step towards a more open and transparent democracy.
