

Choctaw Casinos & Resorts Incorporates Kinectify's Modern AML Technology

Choctaw sets a new standard for AML and the protection of its community against financial crime by adopting state-of-the-art technology designed for gaming.

LAS VEGAS, NV, UNITED STATES, July 9, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Kinectify, a pioneering technology firm spearheading risk management innovation in gaming, announces the addition of the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma (CNO) to its growing list of clients.

As a leading tribal nation in Oklahoma, Choctaw Nation sets a new standard for anti-money laundering (AML) and the protection of its community against financial crime by incorporating the latest technology designed for the gaming industry. This collaboration with Kinectify brings a full range of modern technology capabilities to Choctaw Nation's risk management operations that will drive efficiency and increased detection of risk.

The Choctaw Nation has a long-standing history of leveraging current technologies to improve its capabilities and protect its community. The integration of Kinectify follows this proud tradition of continuous innovation and forward progress.

"We are thrilled to see the development of modern AML risk management technology designed for tribal operations. We look forward to incorporating this technology into our operations and expanding our risk management capabilities," said Jannaca Hardison, Senior Director of Commerce Compliance, Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma.

The Choctaw Nation joins other major gaming brands adopting Kinectify as their core risk management monitoring technology, leading the digital transformation in this area across the industry.

“We are delighted to welcome the Choctaw Nation to Kinectify and are excited to work alongside them to further enhance their capabilities”, said Joseph Martin, CEO of Kinectify. “We have been impressed with the team and their care for their players and the integrity of their gaming ecosystem.”
