“Thank you to the Bison State Bank team for trusting us to provide cash management solutions to your great customer base. We look forward to strengthening this partnership for years to come,” said Ari Raptis, CEO and founder of NST.

Given the ongoing trend of financial institutions digitizing their services and the need for banking solutions in highly regulated industries, the partnership supports NST and

Bison State Bank customers by providing financial services to those who can't traditionally access them due to stringent regulatory requirements.

“We are grateful to NST for providing solutions to our customers who struggle to find traditional banking options. This partnership will expand our program to customers outside of our branch footprint and allow us to provide the ultimate banking experience,” said Ryan Wiebe, chairman and owner of Bison State Bank.

The new partnership follows a recent collaboration with Dart Bank and adds to NST’s expanding roster of 20+ financial partners. NST employs retired police officers and requires two drivers per vehicle, providing a safe, all-encompassing solution for cash logistics in an era of increased risk.
