The Pro EP was written almost ten years into Nya's musical journey, at a turning point in which she had just begun to feel like a professional. Sonically and lyrically, It was inspired by the hard tangle of emotions we feel at a crossroads. At their core, these songs are about that contradictory mix of love and pain, hope and despair, and the desire sometimes to escape it all that makes up living. Nya co-produced all songs on "The Pro" so this EP is especially important to her & her growth as an artist.

Nya's thoughts: "The Pro EP marks almost ten years of my pursuit of music as a career and is the first body of work in which I truly felt like a professional. It was also a deeply personal body of work in which I dropped much of the fantastical metaphor and imagery (I still love) to talk more plainly about turning points in my life. Selfish Reason, Jaded, and the Pro all speak to the hard tangle of emotions we feel at a crossroads, whether the shock of a life-changing event causes that juncture, the growing pains of adulthood, or the evolution of a long-term relationship. At their core, these songs are about that contradictory mix of love and pain, hope and despair, and the desire sometimes to escape it all that makes up living"
