

Star Trek Tricorder by Factory Entertainment Now Available

CONCORD, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, July 22, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Leading pop-culture collectibles company, Factory Entertainment, has announced the latest addition to its expansive range of high-end prop replicas, the TR580 Mark VII Medical Tricorder from Star Trek: The Next Generation.

The prop, as featured in seasons 3 through 7 of the popular TV series, was a specialized medical diagnostic device that became a signature tool for fan-favorite character Dr. Beverly Crusher (Gates McFadden).

After careful study of various source materials, including resources in the Paramount Archives and authenticated items in private collections, the Factory Entertainment team was able to faithfully create a replica that looks and feels like it came off the screen.

“The Mark VII Tricorder has been one of the most requested replicas by Star Trek fans” said

Speaking as a fan myself, I'm confident that TNG fans are going to love this piece!”

Jordan Schwartz, President & CEO of Factory Entertainment. “We’ve spent over 2 years developing this replica to ensure that it not only recreates what fans perceived when they watched Star Trek: The Next Generation, but that it also improves on the original props by using metal construction and incorporating video, light and sound effects that could only originally be hinted at through visual effects and post-production inserts.

Speaking as a fan myself, I'm confident that TNG fans are going to love this piece!”
