Tales of a Traveler in Poetry and Prose, by Brion K Hanks, is beyond simply an outlet of self-expression; but is also a bridge for connecting and establishing good relationships. Hanks wants to inspire and encourage readers to do the same, to be more passionate, and use their own distinct voices to make a difference. In doing so, author Brion K Hanks felt a sense of responsibility and accountability, urging people to play an active role for improving our common future.

Brion K Hanks' collection of poetry and prose touches on the plethora of setbacks and troubles that many people endure when they lose faith in their potential to have a positive influence in the lives of others. Hanks' words are a comfort to the soul and offer solace to those who have experienced loss and comfort to those who have known the depth of love and the complexities of pain. His book stands as a potent message where positive individual acts can massively transform our world in ways to improve today and all tomorrows.

Brion K Hanks writes, "I continue to be a mind traveler who enjoys writing poetry that can be helpful to the human family and I do firmly believe that right human relations are desperately needed in this world of ours. To that end I write poetry and prose with the human family in mind."

As Hanks so eloquently puts it,

"Knowing each of us is a traveler, as well, we are the stars of our own life story. A story in which we write hopefully with no regrets. On a daily basis, each of us should ask ourselves, what will we do to avoid making our world worse? Leading with passion and purpose that is constructive for right human relations will go a long way towards a better world."

I write poetry that is intended to be inspirational and thought-provoking and which will connect with the soul of humanity."
