VANCOUVER, B.C, CANADA, July 23, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Medimap and Solve.Care are excited to announce a joint partnership that adds more transparency to the patient experience. Building on the success having served 12 million patients in Canada, Medimap is partnering with Solve.Care to bring their services to the United States, by choosing Solve.Care's Web 3 infrastructure as their preferred platform to partner their services with.

Together, the companies are establishing a cutting-edge network designed to offer real-time updates on hospital wait times, ensuring prompt and efficient access to medical services.

Medimap is a free web platform for patients to locate, and access care across a variety of healthcare specialties. Medimap is a marketplace that matches patients and healthcare providers, enabling patients to locate care providers, search for the most convenient appointment available to them, and compare providers and view wait times for care in their area. This partnership with Solve.Care and Medimap enables patients to have a choice of where they go for emergency services, based on being able to access a wait time list of all of the Emergency Rooms in their vicinity. The collaboration serves as a beacon of progress, in which patients in the United States and beyond will now have access to Medimap wait times services directly in the Care.Wallet.

"Healthcare on the blockchain is almost the default path forward as it provides ultimate data portability to patients, as well as immutability and cost efficiencies to providers, among many other benefits", said Thomas Jankowski, CEO of Medimap. "By partnering with Solve.Care, Medimap can make its entire network of primary and allied health providers, nurses, pharmacists and entire health systems immediately deployable into any healthcare structure resulting in levels of orchestration not available in any other healthcare network”.

Pradeep Goel, CEO of Solve.Care, commented on the partnership, "By combining our innovative blockchain solutions with Medimap's expertise in providing real-time wait times and patient-provider matching, we are creating a layer of transparency in the healthcare journey.
