With a background in chemistry and biophysics, Charles Pallaghy brings a unique perspective to understanding biblical prophecy. His book "End Times: According to Scripture" offers a profound exploration into God's intricate plan for humanity as revealed through biblical patterns and symbolism.

In "End Times: According to Scripture" Pallaghy meticulously traces biblical history to reveal God's preparation of the church as the bride of Christ for the imminent end times. He highlights how God has orchestrated seven-year cycles and prophetic time spans to shape and refine His people, from the Week of Creation to the Week of Redemption. Biblical figures like Adam, Abraham, and Jacob serve as examples of the relationship between Christ and His church, illustrating qualities such as unwavering devotion and spiritual unity.

Charles Pallaghy, a retired Australian academic with a background in chemistry and biophysics, experienced a spiritual transformation in 1976 that led him to immerse himself in the study and teaching of Scripture.
