"We are not here merely to survive and have our basic needs met," states empowerment entrepreneur Gina Maier Vincent, founder of Exquisitely Aligned. "We are here to thrive, be in awe of life and live authentically."

As high achievers spend decades focusing on what society has identified as "success," they move further away from what truly matters and what brings them satisfaction, significance, and joy. Vincent's forthcoming book, Exquisitely Aligned: A Pocket Guide to Design Your Most Magnificent Future, focuses on helping people identify issues and experience transformation. Society trains us to believe that the answers are on the outside and that if we collect the career, car, house, partner, and kids, the person will feel fulfilled. However fulfillment comes from the inside, at a deeper level.

Master motivator Vincent offers the following suggestions to find your "more:"

Reevaluate how to align and manage the divine resources: time, money, and energy. Most people suffer from an imbalance in at least one area. Work to find your truth.

Define your "more." Then, align spending and investing your time, money, and energy with this truth. By doing so, you invite your most magnificent future to fruition.

Design the future you deserve. Be courageous and let your mind drift to a place where you can realize your most magnificent future. Start by giving yourself permission to think even bigger and open yourself up to life's beauty, elegance, and luxury.
