Enhancing the Living Experience with Advanced Technology

In a world increasingly driven by digital connectivity, R.Evolution recognises the importance of integrating technology and seamlessly combining it with ancient wisdom to elevate the resident experience. Smart home automation allows for optimized energy efficiency, personalised comfort settings, and increased productivity. Furthermore, intelligent sensors within the buildings identify under-utilised areas, adapting energy usage to minimise waste and reduce costs.

Alex Zagrebelny, Founder and CEO of R.Evolution Group, emphasized the company's commitment to residents' well-being: "My projects are designed to optimise residents' time by focusing on their health, longevity, and wellbeing. Its robust digital infrastructure exceeds current demands and ensures future readiness."

Zagrebelny further added, "At R.Evolution, we continuously strive to improve and promote digital connectivity within our buildings, ensuring that residents find homes that not only meet but surpass their connectivity needs, enabling a superior in-home digital experience. The 22Palms and Bac de Roda in Barcelona and Eywa developments in Dubai and are shining examples of how we should be living in this day and age"

Global Recognition for Digital Excellence

WiredScore certification serves as a globally recognised benchmark for assessing buildings' digital connectivity and infrastructure. This certification equips landlords and developers with a strategic advantage in attracting and retaining tenants by demonstrating a commitment to providing top-tier digital connectivity.

Achieving WiredScore certification for the latest R.Evolution projects is a testament to their unwavering dedication to excellence in digital infrastructure. This milestone reinforces the company's position as an industry pioneer, setting new standards for modern living in the Middle East and beyond.
