IICSR Group proudly presents the IICSR Sustainability Dialogues 2024 to accelerate sustainable development.

MUMBAI, MAHARASTRA, INDIA, August 2, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Sustainable development has become a priority for the business community as much as for the development sector and the Government. Although the government and industry leaders set large-scale conferences and targets, the ground numbers convey different stories about the impact of climate change felt by humanity.

According to the statistics, there has been a drastic increase in floods—1.7 per cent under 3°C of warming (bars); as per the IPCC, the number of hungry people increased by over 1 million as per UNICEF in 2024 across 39 countries and the Gender pay gap parity—women earn 16% less globally on average than men—is also increasing, slowing the process of sustainable development.

Harsha Saxena, Managing Director of IICSR Group, believes that the lack of knowledge, processes and collaborations to achieve the sustainable development goals is one of the major causes we aren't reaching the desired numbers and are closer to reaching 1.5 degrees with every passing day.

To circumvent climate change and accelerate the movement of sustainable development, we at IICSR Group are organising IICSR Sustainability Dialogues worldwide. This initiative brings people together to network, collaborate, and join forces to find innovative solutions to achieve SDG goals.
